Antisemitism: Then and Now - Wednesday, April 17

One of the most pernicious and persistent antisemitic tropes holds that Jews have inordinate power in the world, or that Jews control the world. This, even though Jews are only about 0.2% of the global population. In this presentation, you will learn about the origins and history of antisemitism, its primary tropes, and why combating antisemitism is central to the work of creating a safer and more just, equitable, and inclusive society. Speaker: Center for Jewish Studies.

Register by April 15. Course: 120502-AP
